Take Aim on a Specialized Master's Degree Program

The Master of Professional Studies (MPS) degree program takes a progressive academic approach with a focused curriculum that's designed to develop the talents, skills and abilities of management-level staff. The program offers relevant specializations in strategic leadership, human resources, and training and development which are critical functions in today's complex organizations.

Because the MPS degree specializations give you a chance to delve deeper into your chosen career path, it may be a more viable option than generalized MBA curriculums which have a strong emphasis on finance, accounting and marketing. According to the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), the number of MBA degrees conferred annually averages more than 150,000. The MPS degree provides you with a specialized credential that makes you a standout from a crowded pool of Master's candidates.

The MPS is of particular value to individuals with established career paths who are interested in:

- Developing marketable skills to meet evolving workforce demands
- Seeking professional development
- Expanding promotional opportunities

OUR ADVANTAGES ADD UP TO AN A+

Master of Professional Studies – Strategic Leadership

Program Overview:

Leadership is learned, and everyone can benefit from an improved understanding of its art and complexities. The MPS with a concentration in Strategic Leadership explores the topic from a contemporary perspective in a dynamic global environment. Core requirements emphasize competencies for implementing organizational systems, managing change, communicating change, and resolving conflict within a framework of ethical leadership. The program also gives you an opportunity to expand your understanding of inclusive and collaborative leadership behaviors and develop competencies for using them effectively. Throughout the program, you continually reflect on, assess and frame your own personal leadership style, strengths and weaknesses.

Unlike an MBA, which focuses on technical knowledge of current business practices and theory, a strategic leadership degree exposes you to guiding principles which can be applied in any career field.

Program Requirements:

Core Course Requirements	3 courses	9 credit hours
Concentration Requirements - 7 courses required, including at least 1 course from each of the following subject areas: Leadership Theory Research/Data Analysis Organizational Structure and Change Communication Strategic Planning and Assessment	7 courses	21 credit hours
Capstone Project	1 course	3 credit hours
Total hours		33 credit hours

Master of Professional Studies – Human Resources Leadership

Program Overview:

Human resources professionals are increasingly becoming an integral part of an organization’s strategic planning process. Company executives are turning to HR professionals for policy directives and creative ways to use human capital for improved performance results.

The objective of the program is to help students develop a strong foundation in HR principles and procedures and to develop critical thinking skills required to make decisions and solve problems concerning the human side of an organization.

The MPS with a concentration in Human Resources Leadership focuses on a variety of workplace factors (economic, environmental, ethical, legal, political and administrative) and the impact they can have on organizational productivity, performance and behavior.

According to the 2010-11 Occupational Outlook Handbook published by the US Bureau of Labor Statistics, overall employment for human resources specialists is projected to grow by 22% through 2018, much faster than the average for all occupations.

Program Requirements:

Core Course Requirements	3 courses	9 credit hours
Human Resources Concentration	4 courses	12 credit hours
Specialty Electives	3 courses	9 credit hours
Capstone Project	1 course	3 credit hours
Total hours		33 credit hours

Master of Professional Studies – Training and Development

Program Overview:

This program builds theoretical, as well as practical knowledge and skills in adult learning and cognition, organizational needs analysis, project planning, instructional design, development, delivery and evaluation in traditional and virtual learning environments. The goal of the program is to prepare you for employment opportunities where the effective transfer of learning is critical to an organization's success in achieving its overall goals and objectives.

According to the US Bureau of Labor Statistics, employers are expected to devote greater resources to job-specific training programs in response to the increasing complexity of jobs and technological advances that can leave employees with obsolete skills. Additionally, as highly trained and skilled baby boomers retire, there should be strong demand for training and development specialists to impart needed skills to their replacements. Projected job growth is 23% for training and development specialists through 2018.

Program Requirements:

Core Course Requirements	3 courses	9 credit hours
Training and Development Core Requirements	5 courses	15 credit hours
Specialization Options	2 courses	6 credit hours
Capstone Project	1 course	3 credit hours
Total hours		33 credit hours

Choose Your University from a Lineup of Nationally Respected Schools

When you enroll as a Regents Online student in the MPS program, you select a “home campus” from the schools shown below. Your credentials are awarded from the institution you choose as your “home campus.”

National and Regional Accreditation – A Quality Indicator

Accreditation is a process of validation in which colleges and universities of higher learning are evaluated. It’s an indicator that an institution or program meets standards of quality and that there is a commitment to continuously seek ways to enhance the quality of education and training provided.

Accreditation enables companies and hiring managers to filter job candidates who have obtained a degree from an accredited institution from those who have not.

The Master of Professional Studies degree program is offered through Tennessee Board of Regents (TBR) institutions.

All TBR campuses are accredited by:

The Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS)
1866 Southern Lane
Decatur, Georgia 30033-4097
Phone: 1-404-679-4501

Faculty and Classroom Diversity – A Winning Combination

As a Regents Online student, you gain access to highly-qualified faculty members from both your “home campus” and other TBR institutions. For example, your Professional Environment Issues and Ethics course might be taught by a faculty member from Middle Tennessee State University while your Research Methods class is delivered by a professor from East Tennessee State University. Our diverse pool of faculty members from across the campus collaborative gives you exposure to a wide range of opinions, philosophies, regional perspectives and experiences that you might not otherwise receive in an online setting.

Your online classmates are from all walks of life — a working professional trying to juggle family commitments and a career, a displaced worker pursuing a new career path, a recent college graduate, or a young executive seeking career advancement through more specialized training and education. Odds are you will find someone with educational and career aspirations similar to yours.

No Difference between Online and On-Campus Degrees

Your transcripts and diploma will not differentiate whether your courses were taken online or on campus.

Upon program completion, your diploma will be awarded from your “home campus.”

24/7 Convenience on Your Terms

The Regents Online Campus Collaborative delivers college courses to you at home, at work, on the road, at the library; any time of day or night, including weekends. No more long waits in lines or hours away from your job and family. No commuting, no parking fees, no childcare arrangements, no last-minute changes to your calendar. You plan your education around your busy work and personal schedule. You can register online, buy your books and visit the library anytime, anywhere!

Affordability and Value – A Wise Financial Choice

Why pay more and possibly incur significant student loan debt when you can go through Regents Online and earn an affordable education from a respected institution? On a comparative basis, Regents Online courses and programs can be up to half the cost of programs offered by other online education providers and private institutions. We even offer an e-Rate for students who are not residents of Tennessee.

For a current tuition and fee schedule, visit our website at www.rodpc.org.

Financial aid may be available to those who qualify.

Knowledgeable Advisors You Can Trust

Regents Online campus contacts and advisors understand that decisions about your education are some of the most important and difficult ones you can make in your lifetime. Once you've determined your goals and career aspirations, our knowledgeable advisors can provide you with important information vital to making your decision with confidence. We want to be a resource you can rely upon and trust, rather than one that puts personal and program interests above your interests.

We are ready to answer questions you have about:
